Joseph Boss Had Lived More Than One Hundred Years

Joseph Boss, the oldest man in the town of Esopus, if not in Ulster county, who died last Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiching on Hudson street, Port Ewen, was buried in the Port Ewen Cemetery Monday afternoon. He was born in Italy and came across the Atlantic in the early fifties aboard the first Italian man of war that ever visited the United States. He settled at that time in Port Ewen and ran a sailing vessel for some years on the Hudson river. He afterward kept store "under the hill." An elderly woman the other day told about spending pennies at his store for candies when she was a child. His exact age is somewhat hazy, but the fact is fairly well established that he had passed the one hundredth mile stone. Mr. Boss was blessed with excellent health all of his life until recently. During his illness, which was prolonged through several weeks, he was faithfully cared for by Mr. and Mrs. Leiching, with whom he had lived for a number of years. The old man gave testimony to this care when he said to a caller one day, "They have been to me like 'father and mother.'" The Rev. Charles G. Gorse, pastor of the M. E. Church, officiated at the services.

WELLS STRONG IN HOME TOWN

The Ellenville Journal says editorially:

Herman S. Wells, Republican candidate for sheriff of Ulster county, deserves a handsome vote from the people of the town of Wawarsing.

From early life a worker, he has been for nearly forty years a resident and prominently engaged in business in this town. As a volunteer fireman for a long term of years, as a trustee of the village of Ellenville for several terms, as a former supervior from this town, he is to all intents and purposes a "native son," and his record as an industrious citizen and active member of our community entitles him to a handsome complimentary vote for the important office of sheriff of Ulster county.

Honest and straightforward, Mr. Wells is pre-eminently a man of the people, familiar with every phase of our activity, and will doubtless go out of the town of Wawarsing with the vote of an overwhelming majority of our men and women, without regard to party lines back of him.

FERRY COMPANY IS SUED AS RESULT OF DROWNING

Poughkeepsie & Highland Named in Action for $25,000.

The Poughkeepsie Eagle-News says:

Damages of $25,000 are asked of the Poughkeepsie & Highland Ferry Company by Eugene Meyer of Brooklyn in a suit scheduled for trial here at November term of supreme court centering around the drowning of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar H. Schuttrick of Springtown at Highland November 14, when their automobile backed off the dock north of the ferry slip. Philip A. Mylod is attorney for Meyer, who charges the defendant company with negligence in not providing suitable obstructions at the end of the dock to keep cars from backing into the river.

The Schuttrick automobile had been bringing Meyer and William S. P. Davis from Springtown near New Paltz to the ferry to catch a 9 o'clock train here for New York. When the ferry landing was reached Mr. Schuttrick swung his machine in a half circle and backed up in a dimly lighted stretch, not realizing how close he was to the shore. The machine plunged into the river, with all the windows closed.

Davis was seated in the rear of the machine with Rachel Canfield and Flora Canfield of Springtown, who had come along for the ride. The men broke the windows and helped the girls ashore. After an hour's work the body of Schuttrick was brought to the surface by volunteers working with a pike pole. Mrs. Schuttrick's body was not found immediately, but when the machine was raised Mrs. Schuttrick was found in the front seat of the automobile.

A VERDICT AND A RAILROAD SUED

$275 Auto Collision Damages Awarded Waltman—Morris Standard Can't Smell Since Train Hit Him and Killed Team.

A verdict in the sum of $275 for plaintiff was returned by the jury which heard the evidence in the action brought by John D. Waltman against Benjamin Berman. The action grew out of a collision between the car of the plaintiff and the defendant a short distance south of Phoenicia on May 27 of the present year.

The next case taken up in supreme court was an action brought by Morris Standard of Ellenville against the New York Ontario & Western Railroad. Mr. Standard, a farmer and boarding house keeper, alleges that on the morning of January 18, 1921, he was driving over the railroad tracks of the defendant railroad returning home from the creamery when he was struck by a train coming north over the tracks. He alleges that no signal was given, that he exercised due caution and that on account of the peculiar conditions which exist at the grade crossing he was unable to see the train until it was directly upon him and that it was impossible for him to see the train until he himself was upon the tracks. The crossing where the accident happened leads over the railroad tracks some 1,800 feet south of the Ellenville station and is the means of getting to the creamery and to a dwelling house. The buildings he alleged obstruct the vision as well as a high earth embankment along the tracks.

As a result of the accident the team was killed and he was thrown a distance from the tracks and was so severely injured that for seven weeks he remained at the Rest-A-While Sanitarium at Napanoch where he was taken. For a time he hovered between life and death and finally recovered his health. Dr. B. F. Neal who attended him after the accident found a severe injury to his head, a cut which required about twenty stitches to close, a very severe injury to the shoulder and an injury to the ankle. The injury to his head was so severe that he was unable to remember for a long time and an injury to his nose, which was flattened out, prevents him from smelling.

The defendant railroad claims that at the time of the accident plaintiff was not exercising due care, that it was a cold morning and that he approached the tracks with his coat collar turned up, his ears covered and that he failed to hear a warning which was given.

William D. Cunningham with Le Roy Lounsberry appear for plaintiff and Philip Elting with Howard Chipp appear for the defendant railroad company.

CIVIL WAR IN GERMANY WITH FEDERAL TROOPS FIGHTING REDS AND SECESSIONISTS; HAMBURG RETAKEN FROM REDS

JURY FINDS IN SCHUHLE'S FAVOR

Decides Car He Bought Was In Highland Month Before One Was Stolen in New York For Which Insurance Company Seeks To Make Him Pay.

To the question "Was the automobile in question stole in New York city on October 15?" the jury which heard evidence in the action brought by John Schuhle of Highland against the American Alliance Insurance Company answered "No." This was the only question submitted by the court to the jury. The action grows out of Mr. Schuhle's purchase of an alleged stolen automobile from Earl Rhodes who conducts a garage near Highland. Later insurance adjusters who learned of a number of stolen cars at Highland came to Highland and identified the car which Mr. Schuhle had purchased as a stolen car. As Mr. Schuhle had innocently come into possession the company agreed to sell the car back to him for $625. He paid down $25 and later failed to complete the contract, claiming that he now believes the car he purchased is not the one which the insurance company had a claim against. He did not pay the balance due and sued to recover the $25 already paid on account.

In court testimony was given to the effect that the car purchased by Mr. Schuhle was in Highland about September 15 while the car taken in New York was not reported as stolen until October 15. The court held that the question for the jury to decide was whether the car which Mr. Schuhle bought was stolen on October 15 as claimed by the insurance company. If the car was not stolen in New York on that date as reported by the original owner whose claim was paid by the insurance company then the company the court held had no claim against Mr. Schuhle but must turn to the owner to recover if it was found that the car owned by Schuhle was the car taken. The identity of the car was made out by certain body marks after it had been repainted by Schuhle and by a battery which was in the car and by two tires. The engine and generator numbers had been removed and new ones substituted making it difficult to trace the original owner.

John W. Eckert and A. W. Lent appeared for plaintiff and Pariser & Garten for defendant company.

Thirty Reported Killed and 100 Wounded; Rhine Secessionists Seize Many More Cities But Lose Aachen—Turbulence Increases Hourly—French Deny Disarming Loyal Germans.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
A virtual state of civil war prevailed in Germany today with the federal forces engaged against Communists and secessionists.

From 20 to 30 persons were reported killed in clashes and more than 100 wounded.

Reds seized the great port of Hamburg during a battle in which 20 were killed and 40 wounded. Later in the day they were ejected by loyal police.

Rhineland secessionists seized many more cities including Bonn, Wiesbaden, Hamborn and Duisburg. The separatist movement swept through the Ruhr like wild-fire.

Secessionists who seized Aachen (Aix La Chapelle) on Sunday making original proclamations of a Rhineland republic, have been ejected by German police.

The French troops are still maintaining neutrality although they were accused of disarming the police at Bonn. This was denied in Paris.

Federal troops (Reichswehr) entered Dresden, capital of Red Saxony, today. The first clash between the Reichswehr and Saxon Reds took place at Pirna where the troops were fired upon as they entered the city. The Bavarian-Saxon frontier bristles with soldiers.

Andre Tardieu, famous French statesman, writing in the Echo National at Paris, admitted it was France's aim to detach the Rhineland from the German state.

A press dispatch received in Paris today said that 12 persons had been killed in fighting at Mayence, former headquarters of the French army of occupation.

Turbulence throughout Germany increase hourly. The chief fear now is that the Bavarians may invade Saxony and attack the loyal Reichwehr.

Berlin, Oct. 23.—Communists today seized Hamburg, Germany's most important port.

A dispatch from Aachen, (Aix La Chapelle) said that federal troops had ejected the secessionists after a battle.

(Aachen was the first city seized by the separatists. A Rhineland republic was proclaimed there Sunday.)

Rhineland separatists have seized the great university city of Bonn.

The whole German situation has become more turbulent. Fighting and disorders were reported from numerous districts.

German officials are confident that the Rhenish republic movement is losing headway, despite the speed with which it extended on Monday.

The south German situation is causing anxiety. Following the action of Munich in taking over the seventh division of Reichswehr under the "trusteeship" of the Bavarian government, Minister of Defense Gessler ordered additional reinforcements of Reichswehr into Saxony the red state adjoining Bavaria on the east.

About 50,000 federal troops are being massed in Saxony. The government regards the situation in Saxony as well in hand, but there is some trepidation over the future course of the Bavarian nationalists.

The strike movement through central Germany has grown, adding fresh difficulties to the government.

The cabinet is conferring continuously.

CONNELLY HELD FOR TAKING CAR

A young man, aged 22, who gave his name as Frank Connelly, drove into Catskill last Saturday evening and left a Ford car at Post's garage for repairs. Later in the evening the same young man jumped into a Ford sedan of Dr. Honeyford, which stood in front of his office, and drove north. He was later arrested at New Baltimore as he came out of a garage by Dr. Honeyford's chauffeur and a member of the Catskill police force. At the time of the arrest he claimed that he was walking north on the road when the Ford, driven by another man, was stopped and he was given a lift.

Sheriff Pierce of Catskill made an investigation as to the owner of the Ford left at Post's garage for repairs and learned it was owned by Adelbert Connelly of Shandaken. Mr. Connelly was notified and went to Catskill where he identified the car as his and said that his son had taken the car without his permission.

In police court Frank Connelly was charged with a violation of section 1293-A of the penal law, in relation to taking a car without permission. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $500 bail for the grand jury.

EUGENE E. EARLE IS HELD ON A PERJURY CHARGE

Young Man Who Believed In Walking On His Honeymoon.

The Poughkeepsie Evening Star says:

Eugene E. Earle was arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Morschauser today on the charge of perjury and he pleaded not guilty, his bail being fixed at $3,000. The court assigned Edward A. Conger as his attorney and his case was set down for Tuesday to set date of trial.

Earle was brought to this city by Deputy Sheriff Frank F. Abercrombie from Auburn Prison where he had served a term of one year for impersonating an officer. This appears to have been one of Earle's diversions as he was charged with having claimed that he was a secret service agent while he was living here.

An indictment had been found against him in this county for having sworn falsely to his application for a marriage license in which he stated he had never been married before. The records showed that he had a wife and child living at Rochester at the time, the authorities say. He married Miss Beulah Clearwater of Wappingers Falls at Cold Spring in 1922, and they went to Milton where they stayed a few days and then walked to Kingston. After arriving in Kingston their money gave out and they started to walk to Bridgeport, Conn.

POOR LONESOME COWBOYS OF THE WIDE OPEN SPACES WHERE MEN ARE MEN WANT GIRLS TO WRITE TO THEM

Mayor Walter P. Crane Monday received a communication from the National Order of Cow Punchers, written by Charles Chenowith, supreme protective cowboy, of Seattle, Washington, which states: "This is a personal appeal. Humanity calls from the wilderness." The communication further stated "these boys, fearless hunters of the mountains and deserts, wild riders of the plains who spend many lonesome hours on the range have an idea that you can place them in communication with the honorable girls, women, men and boys of your city interested in an outdoor life for the exchange of correspondence to lighten life along the long, long trail."

The communication has been filed with Deputy City Clerk Joseph D. Turner but as he does not care for the great open spaces where men are men it is hardly likely that any lonesome cowboy will be cheered by a communication from him. And anyhow the fearless riders of the great outdoors would much prefer hearing from girls.

SAFETY FIRST HINTS FOR USERS OF GUN

Among the "Don'ts" sent out by the conservation commission is this one:

Avoid shooting accidents in the first instance by being perfectly familiar with your gun. Next, never pull it toward you by the muzzle when reaching for it as when hunting ducks from a boat. When getting over a fence never brace it against the wire or the rails, as it is liable to slip and discharge, thereby causing a serious accident. When hunting with a companion always know his location, as many accidents occur, particularly when shooting pheasants, grouse or quail by firing at the bird when she goes up, sometimes hitting your hunting companion. Never walk along with a hunting companion with the muzzle of a gun pointing directly at him. If in single file, carry it across your arm. If your companion is ahead, carry it across your shoulder with the muzzle pointing backward, or, if hunting deer or other big game, be sure that it is a legal deer and not a man you are shooting at. Never neglect, when through hunting for the day, to unload your gun. Always have in mind, when hunting, the motto "Safety First."

Stored Potatoes Need Air.

Dark brown or black areas in the center of potatoes, commonly known as blackheart, can be prevented by storing the tubers under proper conditions, declares the potato specialist at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva. Studies carried on at the station show that the trouble is due almost altogether to insufficient ventilation, although overheating is also known to produce similar effects.

AGRICULTURE NEEDS MORE TRAINED MEN SAY LEADERS

Leading farm organizations of New York State, speaking through the New York Agricultural Conference Board and the New York Cooperative Council, recently requested the state college of agriculture to institute more extended and complete courses for training young men in the economic and business needs of agriculture.

Representatives of the grange, dairymen's league, farm bureau federation, G. L. F., exchange, horticultural society, and all the state-wide cooperative associations met at the college of agriculture recently with Dean A. R. Mann and Professor G. W. Warren of the department of agricultural economics and farm management to discuss this request.

According to Dean A. R. Mann, the college is very sympathetic with the request and is prepared to put in the necessary research, extension, and teaching work to meet the need for more information on agricultural economics and business provided the state legislature sanctions this move.

lect Earrings That Will Suit Your Eyes

is something of a problem and not casual thing that most women ke of this selecting a really becom pair of earrings. An authority on subject of beauty and of such ac ories as enhances it has this advice offer. She says:

How many women when selecting rings stop to think, 'Will these b d to my eyes?' Very often fine eyes made to appear poor in color. The e eye can lose its subtle and delicate des, the darker become dull and ry. Better a becoming glass bead n the most exquisite jewel if it be es a serious rival to the finer jew of the face. Brown eyes are en-ced by orange yellow, all shades of al and oriental pearl. Eyes of blue amethyst, a deeper or lighter blue, p red and jet. Gray eyes can take same colors as blue, with amber ed but the colors should be opaque. e most difficult are the nondescript s, when sometimes it is wiser to re-in from wearing earrings during the rtime, although, when chosen by ar-ficial light for evening wear of 'n ficiently pale or deep shade, they be an asset. Color Scheme Should Be Chosen With Care

It is quite right that in one's own private rooms he indulge in any color scheme that is particularly pleasing to him. A living room color scheme should be cheerful and a combination of various colors. There must be a predominating color, yet it should not stand out too strongly. Soft yellows and creams, dull old rose, grays that are "alive"—that is, those that are mixed with lavender, rose or yellow; or apple green (as well as other greens that are allied to this green) are used very successfully as the leading color. Those who are particularly fond of having flowers in their living room practically all the time, and most of us belong to this class should be careful not to have a color scheme that will not permit of the introduction of flowers of any and all colors. For instance, so many living rooms are finished almost entirely in yellow or some tone of red. This is very unfortunate. Yellow flowers are very prominent, and they are altogether suited to outdoor coloring. But at what a disadvantage is a beautiful bunch of yellow zinnias, for instance, in a red room? Or how uncomfortable must a bunch of lovely pink or red roses feel in a room that stands out as yellow in tone? This may be avoided. One method of doing so is by the introduction of quite a great deal of blue, particularly of the brighter tones, of red, lavenders and various shades of green. If these suggested tones are introduced in the walls and in the draperies they will be found to blend with any of the dominating colors spoken of above and also with any temporary ornament that may be introduced. But remember that there must be enough of them to act as answering tones; strong enough to act as a balance. Blue is particularly remarkable as a peacemaker among discordant colors.

Machine Hemstitching Resembles Handwork

Put two strips of your goods together, having them the width that you want between two rows of hemstitching. Turn the edges of these strips in just the same as you would do if you were going to put insertion between the strips. Now take about twenty thicknesses of grocery paper or newspaper and place these between the two strips of goods, the edges of which you have turned in, holding the edges of the strips of goods and the edges of the paper evenly together. Now sew the edges of the goods and the papers together on the machine, taking care to sew as closely to the edge as possible. When finished pull the paper away from the goods. The length of the stitch produced by placing several thicknesses of the paper between the goods forms a hemstitch which is quickly and easily made, and is very pretty and closely resembles hand hemstitching. The width of the hemstitch will be according to the number of thicknesses of paper which you use.

Restful in Effect.

The mere thought of lovely soft green voile curtains is soothing and restful. Conducive to making one want to sink into an armchair and feel at peace with the world are curtains fashioned of this material and edged with green ribbon. The valance across the entire top of the window has three rows of ribbon one inch apart. Cocardes of the ribbon attached to narrow strips of the voile edged with ribbon, form the tie-back.

General Oglethorpe died in Cranham Hall, Essex, his ancestral home, which has been kept in a splendid state of preservation.

"AL" SMITH'S PROGRAM.

There has never been any doubt as to the desire of Tammany to get control of the agricultural affairs of New York state. Nor has there ever been any doubt whatever as to the actual reason. That Tammany's ambition has been to take over the agricultural bureau for the purpose of helping the farmer has also never been entertained. But that Tammany is anxious, zealous to get its grip on the department because it believes that it could strengthen Tammany up-state is admitted. With Tammany it has been a matter of producing votes rather than raising oats.

Whenever Tammany has been able to see the slightest chance to get its hands on the agricultural department it has acted promptly, and has gone to extremes to carry out its purpose. Tammany is convinced that with its domination in the bureau of agriculture it could build up a political machine almost as strong up-state as it has down state. In this respect it has really overplayed its hand, and by doing so has proved to the majority of farmers and farming people that its object has been political and nothing else. Again the thought comes to one's mind of votes rather than oats.

Governor Smith, it will be remembered recommended that the department of farms and markets be abolished and that the appointment of a commissioner of agriculture be placed in the hands of the Governor. That this recommendation would come was expected, in fact it would have been surprising had it not come because Governor Smith, being a Tammany man, has just as much political vision as any other man in the Democratic organization. Fortunately a Republican Assembly was in position to block a Tammany raid on the department, and keeping a Republican majority in the Assembly will mean keeping Tammany's grip away from agriculture.

There is no doubt as to the attitude of the farmer on the question of Tammany control in the department of agriculture. Having ample knowledge of what it would mean, the farmer will protect his interests by getting to the polls and forcing Tammany to keep its fingers out of the affairs of the department of farms and markets.

Prominently identified with the Sixth Ward during a lifelong residence there, James M. Murphy is especially fortunate in knowing the needs of his ward as well as of the city of Kingston, and his nomination by the Republican party for the office of supervisor is in recognition of his worthiness and ability. Mr. Murphy will be a representative of whom the voters may well be proud. He is thoroughly familiar with the needs of the Sixth Ward, of the city of Kingston and of Ulster county. The city's representatives in the board of supervisor should be men who have that kind of knowledge and who are willing to use it for the benefit of the people. They should also have sound judgment, ability to [illegible] determination to succeed with accomplish many things needed because Mr. Murphy is equipped that way, with his other excellent qualities, he should receive an overwhelming majority on election for supervisor of the Sixth Ward.

James L. Rowe has shown his ability in so many ways that his nomination for supervisor by the Republican party in the Second Ward naturally was to be expected. Mr. Rowe has been active in his ward ever since he has been a voter, and the confidence in his business ability and integrity in the past has been shown to be fully warranted. He is deeply interested in all matters pertaining to the growth and development of his ward and of the city and county. Nobody realizes more keenly the necessity of proper representation of his ward and of the city in the county legislature, and in the discharge of public duties as in the performance of the ordinary, everyday affairs of life, Mr. Rowe at all times will be found to be dependable. That is the kind of representative the people want, and a vote for him for supervisor will be a vote with which every man and woman voter of the Second Ward will be fully satisfied afterward.

Augustus Sulzer, who has been selected by the Republican party in the Thirteenth Ward as the candidate for supervisor, measures up fully to the confidence shown in selecting him for this important office. The city's representatives in the county legislature occupy a most responsible position in their relation to the taxpayer and Mr. Sulzer can be depended upon at all times to perform such duties in a satisfactory manner. As the burden of state taxes grows heavier, taxpayers look for relief to the representatives in city and county, and Mr. Sulzer may be confidently relied on to aid them in every way possible. As representative of the Thirteenth Ward, he will bring to the office the stability and integrity and sound common sense required, and his election by the voters will insure them a representative in whom confidence will be placed.

A Republican majority in the Assembly will prevent Tammany from taking over control of the state department of education, the agricultural department, inflicting personal registration of the farmer, redistricting the state, and, among other things, turning the national guard into a Tammany marching club. These are just a few of the things that a Republican majority in the lower house of the legislature will prevent.

THE NEW PARTNERSHIP.

There has been a marked change in the attitude of patient to doctor, and doctor to patient in the last few years.

That feeling of awe on the part of the patient toward the doctor is now departing. While it was well to respect the doctor and his knowledge, it often led the patient to try and doctor himself, as, if the ailment were slight, he felt that the doctor would dismiss him with perhaps a laugh or a slight rebuke for bothering with such a trifle. (This of course does not apply to the occasional doctor who magnifies the seriousness of simple ailments so as to make people more careful.)

Also from the doctor's standpoint, there is a more direct contact with the patient. Where formerly a doctor hesitated to explain the cause of an ailment to a patient, because he felt that the latter might think he was trying to "show off" his knowledge, he now goes into the simple explanation of the structure of the particular part, and what is likely interfering with its proper use or condition.

What's the result?

Why he immediately has the cooperation of the patient, who with a common sense idea of what is wrong, uses common sense measures, with the aid of the physician, to get himself well again.

You see the majority of people have courage enough to face things, to ask [illegible] things, if they know exact [illegible] ions, and the proper way [illegible] it.

The [illegible] delays recovery and take [illegible] of people is "uncertainty" [illegible] all their time is spent [illegible] wondering just what can be the matter, whether or not they are doing the proper thing, and what will be the outcome.

With the new arrangement they tell their doctor everything; he gets every chance humanly possible to diagnose their ailment, and by explaining the nature of the trouble and the necessity for certain measures the interested parties are working toward the cure instead of one often the patient was undoing the treatment by fear and lack of knowledge.

It's all just good hard sense, isn't it?

FARM BORROWING GREATEST LAND BANK RECORDS SHOW

Farmers take out mortgages and seek loans in the fall more than any other season of the year, the records of the federal land bank at Springfield show.

The increased use which farmers are making of the federal land bank is indicated by the fact that the spring loans exceeded those of last spring by over a million and a quarter dollars. During April and May of this year the land bank advanced farmers $5,225,775, the bank reported. This sum represented 1,128 loans. These applications were filed through 146 farm loan associations, covering every township in the eight states served in the Springfield federal land bank district, which comprises all of New England, New York and New Jersey.

No appraisals for loans will be made by the bank after snow flies, the officials of the Springfield Bank announced recently.

Ontario College Gives Tuberculosis Treatment

The Ontario Agricultural college reports that tuberculosis in poultry is very common in that province. There is not a county from which there has not been received for examination hens either dead of, or suffering from, this disease. Almost invariably a letter accompanies such birds stating that deaths are occurring in the flock at frequent intervals.

Tuberculosis results in considerable financial losses to the poultryman, due to decrease in egg production, and heavy mortality in the flocks where it is present.

The disease is chronic rather than acute. The birds suffering from it usually lose flesh, turn pale around head, become listless, mopy and frequently lame, while egg laying is reduced to a minimum.

To be sure that such a condition of the birds is due to tuberculosis it is necessary to hold a post-mortem examination of one of them. The bird should be killed and opened up. If tuberculosis is present the liver and spleen will be spotted with white or cream colored spots varying in size from a small pin head to a pea or bean. These are the socalled tubercles, which are composed of dead tissue that has been killed by the action of the poison secreted by the tuberculosis bacteria which have developed there. These tubercles are often found on the intestines and in the lungs and bones as well as in the liver and spleen.

Birds suffering from the disease give off large numbers of the tuberculosis bacteria in their droppings. Other birds in the flock scratching around and feeding with such birds pick up the bacteria with their feed and grit and so get infected.

When this disease is found in a flock it is advisable to kill off all the birds. Those birds which on examination do not show evidence of the disease may be used as food. Those that show the disease should be destroyed by burning or burying deeply in quicklime.

The entire premises in which the birds have been kept should then be well scraped, cleaned and thoroughly disinfected by the application of a disinfectant wash or spray, as quicklime, cresol, etc. The runs should be well covered with quicklime and then ploughed deeply. Even after such treatment it would be preferable to establish new runs on fresh ground and then restock from flocks that are known to be healthy.

Poultry Producers Now Favoring Infertile Egg

The heat of summer has exactly the same effect upon fertile eggs as does the hen or the incubator used to hatch them. The fertile germ in hot weather quickly develops into a blood ring which spoils the egg for food or market purposes. Heat is the great enemy of eggs, both fertile and infertile. On this account poultry producers are urged to keep nests clean during warm weather; to provide one nest for every four fowls, in order that the nests may not be used too often and soil the eggs; to gather eggs twice daily; to keep eggs in a cool, dry room or cellar; to market eggs at least twice a week.

Hens isolated on range and pasture from the male birds produce infertile eggs of desirable market quality. In general, about two weeks after the roosters are removed from the flock the hens will again yield infertile eggs. Occasionally hens running with male birds produce infertile eggs, but as a rule this results from the fowls being confined too closely, being overfat, or not having access to enough green feed.

Best Plan to Segregate Geese From Other Birds

Geese need a separate range from poultry if many geese are raised. The big birds are not particular where they dig their bills, but are sure to wash them off in the hens' drinking water or the crocks of sour milk. This means dirty water for the hens or frequent emptying and refilling of troughs or pails. If the hens are on a limited range they will need plenty of tender grass and geese also need a lot of grass.

If geese are allowed to range where young chicks are growing the geese will steal the mash and some of the scratch feed. This increases the cost per pound of producing goose meat, and the profit in geese is due to the fact that they are largely grass eaters and can be raised on cheap feed.

Jerusalem Artichoke Is Good for Growing Stock

The Jerusalem Artichoke, and especially the Mammoth French White, deserves more attention from poultrymen. Extremely hardy and prolific, it can be grown almost anywhere and under any conditions. The green shoots form abundant shade and succulent feed for growing stock, the closeness of the foliage helps to choke out weeds, while the tuners keep well, are relished for winter feed for laying hens and early spring feed for little chicks.

WORK OF VETERANS' BUREAU

Improvements for Relief of Soldiers in Accord With Legion Policies, Director Says.

Practically all accomplishments of the United States veterans' bureau, regarded by Director Frank T. Hines as noteworthy improvements for the relief of the soldier, have been advocated, and are in accord with the policies of the American Legion, according to Joseph Sparks, chairman of the national rehabilitation committee of the American Legion.

Among the recent actions of the bureau for the relief of the disabled man have been provisions for a permanent partial status to disabled beneficiaries now receiving compensation on a temporary partial rating, thereby reducing medical examinations, eliminating inconvenience to employed beneficiaries and reducing travel and personnel.

Another forward step of the bureau, strongly advocated by the Legion, was the employment of effective methods of placement of vocational trainees, which has been successful in securing positions for 97 per cent of the trainees.

Internal changes in the operation of the bureau are the elimination of administration overhead expense, by closing 35 subdistrict offices; concentration of bureau supplies in three large central depots and inventory of all these supplies to eliminate further purchases; establishing of a record section in the supply division; consolidation of similar duties in central offices under one head; establishment of an inspection division, contemplated by the law, but never before established; the closing of contracts for institutions where settlements had not been effected and where the institutions were not being used. One of the principal achievements, declares Director Hines, is the placing of the bureau on a strict budget system.

SAVE VETERAN FROM ASYLUM

Ex-Service Man Sent to Hospital for Observation, Through Action of Auxiliary Official.

Carl Huff, a World war veteran of Alex, Okla., was saved from a madhouse because members of the American Legion auxiliary saw to it that he was sent to a hospital for observation rather than to be incarcerated in an asylum for the insane.

Huff was in overseas service for 16 months and returned broken in health. Continual brooding over the condition of a brother who had contracted tuberculosis in service, caused the man to become morbid and extremely nervous.

He was taken to Chickasha before a sanity commission, adjudged insane and ordered to the state asylum at Norman, to be accompanied by a deputy sheriff. When news reached the office of Mrs. Blanche Freeman, national executive committee member of the American Legion auxiliary, Mrs. Freeman, through the aid of county officials, was authorized to overtake the party and direct the officer and his charge to a hospital for observation and treatment. Huff is now receiving care due an ex-service man, and the Legion is fighting his claim for compensation through with the veterans' bureau.

ANXIOUS TO HELP COMRADES

American Legion Ever Ready to Lend Assistance to "Buddies" Needing Protection.

The hand of men of the American Legion is always outstretched to help a former comrade in necessity, according to the many reports reaching national headquarters of the organization. How a disabled man obtained money due him through co-operation of his Legion "buddies," was recently disclosed in a letter from Clearwater, Kansas.

Clarence English, gassed and wounded, was forced to go West to recuperate. A Wichita man owed English $100 and the boy cashed a check he gave him, in payment of hospital expenses. But the check was returned and went to protest a second time. The debt was then called to the attention of a Legion post commander, who saw to it that a delegation of Legionnaires called on the creditor and paid English in full. The former soldier, through his grateful mother, expressed appreciation of the Legion's effort in settling the matter.

Remarkable Is Right.

The commuters' smoking car was filled, mostly with proud young fathers, who had been relating everlasting clever anecdotes of the clever remarks made by their offspring. Finally, Mr. Spiffington, seeing a hole in the conversation, horned in by saying:

"I don't like to talk, but I honestly think that boy of mine is the most remarkable little fellow I ever saw."

Everybody yawned.

"Yes," pursued Mr. Spiffington, "He's six years old, and, so far as I recollect, he never said a bright thing in his life."—American Legion Weekly.

Out for Business.

Hanging on a strap in a crowded street car to the music of the conductor's sonorous voice at frequent intervals bellowing, "Step forward in the car, please," a negro remarked, "Dat boy sho' mus' be workin' on comishun."—Columbus Dispatch.

EDUCATION WEEK IN SCHOOLS

American Legion Will Have Generous Aid in Conducting Program Beginning November 18.

The observance of American Education week, a movement sponsored last year by the American Legion, which received whole-hearted co-operation from school, church and civic authorities, has again been designated, and will begin Sunday, November 18. At the time set, Legion posts throughout the country will unite in an effort from which practically every school child in the United States may profit.

The slogan for the 1923 observance is, "Visit the Schools Today," and is aimed to enlist more interest in the institutions of learning on the part of the parents. Garland W. Powell, director of the National Americanism commission of the American Legion, has outlined a definite program for the movement, which is receiving indorsement of school authorities in every section of the country.

Each day of the week has been set aside for some particular consideration, according to the program offered by Mr. Powell. Beginning with Sunday, when pastors of all denominations will deliver sermons on the relationship of the church and the school, all phases and influences of school life will be touched. Monday, according to the program, is to be known as American Constitution day, when it is hoped that a concise idea of citizenship may be obtained by consideration of the instrument which made it possible. The observance of this day is especially calculated to reach parents of the students. Patriotic customs and methods will form the basis of the next day's observance. This is to include flag etiquette and similar practices of a patriotic nature which the Legion has played an important part in formulating. The fourth day is to be of particular significance to schools and to the teachers. It is to be known as "School and Teacher day," and topics of training of instructors, adequate pay for teachers and bettered facilities for schools. "End-Illiteracy day" is the title suggested for Thursday. Formulation of plans to bring about study of reading and writing for both children and adults will be the aim for this day. One of the most vital features of the entire school program will be considered on Friday, when community development and its relationship to schools of the nation will be topics. On Saturday efforts will be given over to outlining a program for education of American youth along physical lines. Adequate playground facilities and general physical education will be urged.

Through efforts of the Legion and school authorities, who co-operated in the movement last year, many thousands visited the schools daily. The response to the observance was general, and the more ambitious program of 1923 is expected to bring about even a wider recognition of the possibilities of the Legion's program.

Support of the National Education association, state school authorities, and other educational leaders promise to make the Legion's education week of nation-wide import and benefit.

POST WILL CONDUCT SCHOOL

West Palm Beach (Fla.) Organization Is Financing Kindergarten; Extend Program in 1924.

The American Legion is performing a distinct public service in West Palm Beach, Fla., where the local post is financing and standing sponsor for a kindergarten. Seventy-five children will attend the Legion's school during the winter months.

The kindergarten is under supervision of the city school authorities, but could not have been opened except for the participation of some outside agency to furnish necessary funds. Realizing the necessity for the early training of the little folk, the Legion has taken steps to supply the need, and has employed two teachers.

It is anticipated that a waiting list will be maintained in order to care for the demands of parents. If the term is successful, the Legion may extend its program in 1924.

FARM BUREAU LAUNCHES STATE MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

A big state-wide drive for new members will be put on during November by the county farm bureaus, E. V. Underwood, secretary of the state farm bureau federation, has announced.

Fifteen counties have reported to state headquarters that initial steps have already been taken for a vigorous campaign to bring every farmer in these counties into the farm bureau ranks. It is expected that the quota for the state will be far in advance of the figures set, 50,000 members.

Wise Men of the East.

In ancient times there were "wise men" in Persia and Media, who knew, or were reputed to know a lot of things the common people didn't know. They studied the skies, the stars, the storms and the hold books and told the people what they thought they ought to know. These wise men were called magi—hence the word "magic," says the Detroit News. A myth is a fable, an allegory, a fictitious story, contrived to carry some sort of a moral or lesson. Some authorities class parables along with myths and allege that parables, allegory and myth are the result of conscious invention originally designed by some one who probably knew better, to deceive or mislead some one who didn't know better.

Art a Translation.

"I do not know," says Audrey to Touchstone, "what 'poetical' is. Is it honest in deed and word? Is it a true thing?" "No, truly," says Touchstone, "for the truest poetry is the most feigning." Out of the mouth of fools comes forth wisdom (when the voice is the voice of Shakespeare), but poetry in quest of fact has sometimes evinced a kinship with the bewildered intellect of Audrey. I am dwelling persistently upon illusion, because the fundamental conventions of poetry grow inevitably out of the fact that art is what it is, a translation, not a transcript.—John Lowes, in "Convention and Revolt in Poetry."

WHERE THE ADVERTISING DOLLARS GO THE FURTHEST

"There is no royal road in public utility advertising, but you will find the advertising columns of your home town newspaper the direct avenue to the minds of your customers," said Arthur W. Hawks, Jr., manager, publication and advertising department, Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power Company, Baltimore, Md., in the course of an address delivered recently at Atlantic City before the American Gas Association.

With reference to the experience of his company and the desirability of newspaper advertising in preference to other forms, Mr. Hawks stated that "it pays better to advertise in newspapers and costs less than any other way we know." Explaining why nearly all of the Baltimore company's advertising is done in newspaper columns, Mr. Hawks said that it was for the reason that the company had found its "advertising dollars go further and bring back more than any other place we put them."

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MISS WITCH-HAZEL

"In the fall of the year," said Daddy, "there are yellow flowers to be seen on bushes which have large and thick leaves.

"My Namesake."

"These flowers are alongside of the twigs of these bushes and they are known as the Witch-Hazel flowers.

"There are some that flower in the spring but the ones of which I'm speaking flower in the fall.

"Miss Witch-Hazel Bush was dressed up in her very best, and very, very proud was she.

"'I am going to have an exciting time next summer,' she said.

'Instead of wearing a flowery dress I shall think only of fruit and I will shoot forth seeds as my fruit pods burst and in this way more witch-hazel shrubs will be able to grow up.

'I really live for that wonderful time when I can shoot forth these seeds. I shoot them some distance. It is most exciting.

"I hope you will always be able to recognize me—which means that I hope you will always be able to know who I am when you see me.

"One of the best ways of telling who I am is to see if my flowers have four yellow strap shaped petals which come when my leaves are falling.

"My leaves are broad and have straight veins. My leaves and bark go to make up my namesake in the medicine closet.

"Yes, you've all heard of witch-hazel. Well, witch-hazel got its name from our family, for we make witch-hazel.

"We're not the kind either that creatures turn up their noses at as they do old castor oil and some of those disagreeable things.

"We're not to be swallowed. No indeed. That's where we are so nice.

"We don't go about with that manner which castor oil has as though to say:

"'You'll be sick if you don't take us. Maybe we'll make you sick for awhile, but in the end we will make you well.'

"We don't make anyone sick first. No, we're not like that. As I said, we don't want to be swallowed—I mean my Medicine Closet relative doesn't want to be swallowed.

"Witch hazel was never supposed to be swallowed. No, it can be used for burns and sprains and all kinds of sore places. But it is never to be swallowed. Never, never.

"'We help gentlemen after shaving—they can put our Medicine Closet Cousin over their faces and so keep their faces from feeling rough.

"'Oh, we're very useful. Homes, in my opinion, aren't homes without us.

"'We help headaches. We don't do people any harm either the way some horrid medicines will do.

"Witch Hazel Flowers."

"'No, we're cool and pleasant when some of the drops of the Witch Hazel family are put upon a big handkerchief and then put upon the aching head.

"'No horrible swallowing of us! We're to be used outside and not taken inside!'

"So," said Daddy, "you may see Witch-Hazel shrubs some day and you will know that it is from the witch-hazel plants that witch-hazel comes and that Miss Witch-Hazel is going to shoot forth seeds from her fruit pods next summer. And, too, that she is already looking forward to that day!"

Only Half the Pain.

Seven year-old Johnnie was afflicted with earache, and screamed frantically with the pain.

"Hush Johnnie, dear," said nurse soothingly. "Don't cry so; it only makes it worse. Remember how bravely baby Willie behaved when he had earache. He never cried like this."

"Him!" said Johnnie indignantly; "what does that baby know about earache? His ears aren't more than half as big as mine!"

Acute.

Two students on a train were telling about their ability to see and hear. The one says: "Do you see that barn over there on the horizon?"

"Yes."

"Can you see that fly walking around on the roof of that barn?"

"No, but I can hear the shingles crack when he steps on them."

Good Boy, All Right.

"I don't like you to play with that new boy," said Mrs. Jenkins. "I'm afraid he isn't a very good boy."

"Oh, yes, mother," said Joe, "he really is a very good boy. He's been in the reform school twice, and both times they let him out on account of good behavior."

Ancients Were Slow.

One can't have an extremely high opinion of the ancients who allowed themselves not to know of the presence of America only 3,000 miles away.

THE FRUIT CLOSET SHELF

In these days of abundance we must provide for the future—when winter comes—and fresh vegetables and fruits are limited in variety. Here is an old-fashioned pickle which, though some work to prepare, is worth all the trouble it makes.

Virginia Mixed Pickle.—Slice half a peck of green tomatoes and 15 medium-sized onions. Cut four heads of cabbage as for slaw (that is, shred very fine), quarter 25 cucumbers and cut into two-inch pieces leaving the peel on. Add one-half peck of small onions. Mix with salt and let stand twenty-four hours, drain and squeeze dry as possible and cover with vinegar and water. Let stand a day or two, drain again and mix with one ounce of celery seed, one-half ounce of ground cinnamon, one-fourth cupful of white pepper, one-half pound of white mustard seed, one pint of grated horse radish, two ounces of turmeric. Boil six quarts of vinegar and pour boiling hot over the pickles. Do this three mornings in succession, using the same vinegar each time. The third morning add one pound of sugar to the vinegar, then mix one cupful of olive oil with one-half cupful of ground mustard and add when the pickles are cold.

Tomato Butter.—Take seven pounds of ripe tomatoes peeled and sliced, three pounds of sugar, one ounce each of whole cinnamon and cloves and one pint of vinegar. Boil three hours; during the last of the cooking stir to keep from scorching. This may be kept in unsealed jars.

Red Pepper Jam.—Take twelve large, sweet red peppers, remove the seeds and put through the meat chopper, using the medium knife. Sprinkle with a tablespoonful of salt and let stand three or four hours. Drain, put into a kettle and add one pint of vinegar and three cupfuls of sugar. Boil gently until of the consistency of jam—about an hour. Pour into sterilized glasses and when cold cover with paraffin. This makes six glasses.

BAPTISTS LAUNCH WORLD-WIDE MISSIONARY MOVE

BIBLE AND REGISTERED MISS'Y CONF.

NORTHERN BAPTISTS throughout the country will engage in a great missionary movement during the next two months, during which many thousand members of the denomination will wear the little blue and white buttons shown in the accompanying picture.

These buttons signify the registration of their wearers in a nation-wide series of Bible and Missionary Conferences, as an outgrowth of which the denomination hopes for a great revival of evangelism. Conferences will be held during October and November in thirty-five large cities in the United States, chosen as centers for this work. Leaders expect that from these centers a wave of missionary spirit will go forth that will not only reach the most remote of the 9034 Northern Baptist Churches in the United States, and the most distant of the 1,500,000 members of the denomination, but also spread around the nation and around the world.

"The world is ready and waiting for evangelization as never before," denominational leaders declare. "The events of the past few years, such as wars, revolutions, famines, earthquakes, and labor troubles at home and abroad have left humanity ready to turn to tokings of the spirit. The time for a great missionary movement has come."

Dr. John Y. Aitchison, General Director of the General Board of Promotion of the Northern Baptist Convention, has appointed the Rev. W. H. Bowler, secretary of Field Activities of the Northern Baptist Convention, as national leader in the Bible and Missionary Conferences. Thirty-five picked men will work under Mr. Bowler's direction as conference secretaries in the various centers. Their work will be supplemented by that of Northern Baptist pastors throughout the nation, as well as by that of committees of business men, Baptist women, young people and other church groups. Contests will be engaged in between groups, churches, and even cities to secure the largest possible number of registrations.

Missionaries direct from foreign fields will present vivid pictures of spiritual conditions in far lands, while home missionaries urge the evangelistic needs of various groups in the United States.

How Linit Brings Out the Dainty Freshness of Your Children's Garments

THERE isn't anything quite so charming as the daintiness of your children's dresses, nor anything in which a mother takes more pride.

The trouble is to keep the little dresses looking fresh and dainty. One reason for this is that ordinary starch does not resist the dust or permit the fabric to stay clean. That is why mothers welcome Linit, the remarkable new starch discovery.

Because Linit remains thin and free-running like water, it penetrates every thread of the fabric, and helps strengthen it, thus preventing wear and increasing the life of the material.

For baby's dainty clothes, there is nothing that produces quite such a delightful effect as Linit—or gives such a fresh, spotless appearance.

Important to You

BE sure to use Linit according to directions, and unlike other starches, you will not find Linit stiff or jelly-like. This is why Linit goes much further than the old-fashioned kind of starches—and why it is easier to iron with Linit.

Go to your grocer, ask for a 10c package of Linit and begin to use it for all fabrics. Perfection in starching guaranteed—or your money refunded.

MOROS AGAINST INDEPENDENCE

Thumb-Signed Document Sent To Washington Declares Civil War Would at Once Break Out.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 23.—With the smudgy fingerprints of village "headmen" as signatures, a document protesting against the granting of independence to the Philippine Island has been received by Secretary of War Weeks from the Moro tribes, it was learned today. The protest, which comes at a time when the Philippine situation is causing the administration deep concern because of the difficulties between the legislative leaders, will be submitted to President Coolidge for consideration.

The objections of the Moros to Philippine independence were set forth in the message in clear and concise language and it apparently had been written by some one conversant with the English language. The signature to the document, however, consisted of the imprints of the thumbs of each of the tribal headmen, giving rise to the belief that the Moros probably had only the word of their interpreter that their views on the subject were being set forth as they wished them to be.

While the message was not made public, it is understood that the Moros' chief objection to Philippine independence was that civil war would immediately break out in the islands between the non-Christian tribes located for the most part on the island of Mindanao, the Christian Filippinos of Luzon if the guardian hand of the United States was removed.

Civil war, they contend, would eventually mean the extermination of one of the two factions. Inasmuch as the Moros are for the most part unarmed and unorganized they would probably be the ones to suffer defeat. On the other hand, Mindanao, probably the richest and largest island of the Philippine group, is in the control of the Moros and there are innumerable non-Christian tribes scattered throughout Luzon, the stronghold of the Christians. If the Filipinos were able to capture Mindanao it would be only after a bitter struggle. Furthermore, with the two largest and most productive islands of the group aligned against each other, the independence of the islands would not last long, it was pointed out.

Army officials declare that the recent insurrection of the Moros and other simiar revolts are not directed, as is generally supposed, against the United States or American soldiers, but against the Christian Filipinos.

These revolts they say, are inspired by the Moros' bitter hatred of the soldiers of the constabulary and the Philippine scouts, all of whom are native Filipinos. The regular American troops are only called into action when the scouts and the constabulary are unable to quell a revolt.

Do you take orders from a Coffee Pot?

IT must be humiliating for thousands of people to confess that they lack the will-power to stop coffee.

They know from experience that it results in irritated nerves; keeps them awake nights; makes them nervous. Yet they don't seem to be able to say "no."

If you find that coffee harms you, change to the pure cereal beverage, Postum. You'll find it delicious and satisfying. And it is absolutely free from caffeine or any other harmful drug, so you can drink Postum at any meal, and as much as you want.

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling fully 20 minutes. The cost of either form is about one-half cent a cup.

NEW MEMORIAL TO BE MASONIC RALLYING POINT.

Many Masons from this city and vicinity are planning to attend the ceremonies attendant upon the laying of the cornerstone on November 1, at Alexandria, Va., of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial. This event will attract to Alexandria and Washington, D. C., the largest number of Masons ever gathered on any occasion in American history.

The memorial, which is declared to be the grandest ever erected in honor of any man, will be built on Shooters Hill, along the Arlington Ridge and commanding a view of the city of Washington, of Mt. Vernon and of all the country most frequented by George Washington. The structure will exceed in size all the other great monuments heretofore erected in the national capital and immediate environs. It will be 230 feet in depth by 160 feet in width and its height will be 200 feet. It will be in the classical style, entirely of enduring granite, and its cost when complete will be $4,000,000.

Surrounding the memorial proper will be a park of 32 acres, and the edifice will be approached by a series of steps and terraces, beautifully arranged by the landscape artist. The memorial hall in this grand structure will be in the form of an atrium 70 by 100 feet and 64 feet in height. It will be flanked by Ionic columns 40 feet high. The entrance will be expressed in a six-columned portico of pure Doric design. Above the memorial hall will be rooms used for a museum of Washington relics. Still another level will rise beyond that, and crowning all will be a covered observation platform, all three levels screened by stately collonades.

There are now more than 17,000 Blue Lodges in the United States, with 3,000,000 members. The Masonic fraternity as a whole, and each of its 3,000,000 members are vitally interested in the ceremonies to accompany the laying of the cornerstone of the memorial on November 1 next. The memorial itself will be the center and rallying point for the Masons of the United States and of the whole world.

It is planned to have ready by the time snow flies, two toboggan slides, a good ski jump and new ice rink on the large playground south of the Inn.

The motor roads leading to and through the park are kept open by the park snow plows nearly all winter.

RED CROSS MET TEST IN JAPAN FUND DRIVE

Spirit of Service Demonstrated in Readiness for Nation-wide Activity.

When President Coolidge by proclamation designated the American Red Cross as the medium through which contributions for relief of the Japanese earthquake sufferers should flow, the President's desire came as an order to the Red Cross. Immediately the entire machinery of the organization was put in motion and within 24 hours the fund campaign was moving with vigor in every part of the country.

This emergency test demonstrated the peacetime readiness of the Red Cross to cope with stupendous tasks in behalf of humanity. Within a month it had collected upwards of $10,250,000 in contributions, landed ten cargoes of supplies at Japanese ports and was keeping pace with relief requirements—all without a single dollar of the fund being spent for administration.

President Coolidge, in expressing his thanks to the people, said: "When the news of the tragedy in Japan first reached us, the American Red Cross, pursuant to a proclamation, asked the country for $5,000,000 to meet the great emergency. The answer to this appeal was prompt and generous; in less than two weeks a sum far in excess of the original goal was given."

The work of the Red Cross for Japan is expected to influence a very large enrollment of new recruits during the Roll Call, which starts Armistice Day.

Red Cross First Aid Standards Adopted In Great Industries

First aid in an emergency which assures the injured competent attention until the doctor arrives is making marked headway through the work of the Chapters of the American Red Cross. In populous centers 314 chapters conduct first aid classes and last year awarded 9,500 certificates to students. Eight big telephone companies have enlisted their workers in first aid classes, police and fire departments in large cities are making the course compulsory in their training schools, and through colleges and high schools large groups of students receive instruction. The Red Cross also gives this course through Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Y. M. C. A. and similar organizations, and its standard methods have been adopted by railroads, electric and gas companies, mines and in the metal industries. The aim of this Red Cross service is to cut down radically the average of 60,000 accidental deaths per year in the United States.

"Our country could secure no higher commendation, no greater place in history, than to have it correctly said that the Red Cross is truly American."—President Coolidge.

Every day is a better one to the man and woman stimulated by the Red Cross spirit. Join now for happiness.

Power of Custom.

"You have succeeded in remaining in office a great many years; you must have pleased some folks."

"I don't know as I always pleased them," replied Senator Sorghum. "I just kind of got to be a habit with them."

Junior Red Cross Spreads Good Will Throughout World

Nearly 5,000,000 pupils in the schools of America are following the standard of unselfish service as members of the American Junior Red Cross, the annual report of the American Red Cross discloses. This valiant host is represented in 125,072 school rooms of 21,289 schools throughout the United States. With a service program that is local, national and international in scope, the American Junior Red Cross is working unfalteringly for health and happiness and in the promotion of activities among boys and girls wherever there is opportunity for usefulness.

Increased activity on the part of the schools enrolled and deeper recognition by school authorities of the educational values of Junior Red Cross have been significant features of the last year. Carrying on educational and relief work in France, Poland, Austria, Hungary, Jugoslavia, Albania, Bulgaria and Rumania, the American Juniors have influenced the forming of Junior departments in the Red Cross organizations of these countries. American boys and girls wearing the "I Serve" button of the Juniors are proving apt messengers of the spirit of good will and mutual understanding through correspondence with pupils in schools scattered throughout the world. At the close of the school year in June 2,009 schools were engaged in correspondence with a like number of schools in Europe; 234 schools in our insular possessions and Alaska territory carried on an exchange of letters with schools in the United States and South Africa. In fact, nearly 2,700 schools with probably 100,000 pupils were busy in this fine act of cheerful communication, while 8,347 articles passed through National Headquarters of the Red Cross in exchanges between the interested pupils here and overseas. An incident of the year's advance was the beginning of activity which will eventually install Junior Red Cross in the Indian schools of the United States.

From every section of the country reports of the tour of the unit of crippled children with their chorus which came from the Bakule school in Prague, Czechoslovakia, to show gratitude to the American Juniors for their assistance declare that nothing since the World War has done so much to awaken the Red Cross spirit in the communities visited by the unit.

The work of the American Juniors in foreign fields is emphasized in the advancement of playgrounds, scholarships in farm, trade and other schools, community and school garden work, and donations of cash and equipment to children's organizations. In these projects $112,060.17 was spent during the last year in ten European countries, in China and in the Virgin Islands.

"It is inconceivable that the Red Cross could have come thus far only to retreat; that it could have succeeded up to the present time only to fail."—President Coolidge.

Liberal to Ex-Service Men

Over $1,000 was expended by each of the 3,600 American Red Cross Chapters in the past year in behalf of disabled ex-service men. The actual total spent was $3,930,000.

Scots Made Pistols.

Before the advent of the American revolver, the Scottish cities of Perth, Stirling and Dundee were great centers of the pistol-making industry. Scottish pistols were famous as far back as 1515, and were exported to many countries. There were at one time nearly 100 concerns in Scotland engaged in the industry.

WOMAN DRIVER NO LONGER STRANGER

She Has Learned to Keep Cool Head and Is No Longer Butt of Fun and Ridicule.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

The woman driver is no longer a stranger on our streets. The time when the sight of a woman driving a car in Chicago's congested streets provoked fear and trembling has gone, for now there are almost as many woman drivers as men, and we no longer look askance at them.

In the old days before the new movement had appeared woman was looked upon as a creature of "nerves," a person to be coddled and protected and expected to have forebodings and fear but, with the coming of woman into a larger and broader life, that is, her entrance into business and all sorts of public enterprises, the "woman with nerves," is departing and we are welcoming the "woman with nerve," and in this pleasurable progress the automobile has played a conspicuous part.

Exhilarating Stimulus.

Any woman who drives a car can testify to the exhilarating stimulus this work produces. She must learn to keep cool head; she must not worry about anything in front of her; she must keep a firm, steady grip on the wheel, and a no less intelligent control of her feet.

A man whom I was talking with recently said: "When my wife first endeavored to drive, I was always more or less uneasy as to what was going to happen to us, but as she got experience she seemed to increase her self-confidence and I no longer feel nervous and am quite content to see her at the wheel. In fact, I take considerable pride each night when I come down to find my wife and three kiddies waiting for me. It gives me a sense of ease to be on the back seat of our sedan and talk to the boys while Milady drives me home."

No longer is the woman automobile driver simply tolerated and her desire to run a car scoffed at as an impractical whim. She is no longer the butt of fun and ridicule for the "woman at the wheel" because her record is here to stay.

SOLDER IS OF GREAT VALUE

In Making Battery Connections Care Should Be Taken That Metal Doesn't Overflow.

When a wire carrying electric current is to be attached to a terminal or to another piece of wire, the common practice is to make the connection, wrap it with tire tape and call it a job. The connection serves very well until corrosion of the parts sets in, when a resistance to passage of the current is set up with increasingly detrimental results.

As a matter of fact all connections of this kind should be soldered as soon as they are made. In soldering these parts care should be taken to keep the solder from flowing on any part of the wire except the terminal, as the heat tends to make the wire brittle and likely to break. In doing the work hold the tinned surface of the soldering iron close to the places where the juncture is to be made. Hold the iron steadily in the one place, so that solder flows freely on the connection, and, after completing the job, test with the battery to see that the current flows properly.

PLAN TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Bureau of Standards Officially Recommends Uniform Laws for Headlights.

Believing that hundreds of lives and thousands of automobile accidents may be saved in this country every year by uniformity of laws, the bureau of standards has officially recommended that all states adopt uniform laws regulating automobile headlights.

SPEEDOMETER FIXED TO REGULATE ENGINE

New Device Deadens Motor When Dialed Figure Reached.

Possibility of improvement in the speedometer has perhaps not impressed itself upon the average driver; but the product now being marketed indicates that this possibility exists. As far as the mechanism indicating speed, trip mileage and total mileage is concerned, this speedometer is no different from its predecessors. But it goes far beyond that.

The dial at the bottom of the instrument may be set for any desired speed, and then locked or left unlocked. In either event, as the car comes within two or three miles of the indicated speed, the signal light at the right will flash; and if the acceleration then continues until the car actually reaches the dialed speed, the ignition is cut off. If the dial has been locked, there is no escape from this; if it has been left unlocked, the driver may meet an emergency by a simple twist of the key, setting the limit forward to any desired point.

Finally, the instrument may be adjusted so that the signal light alone works, without the ignition cut-out; or the cut-out alone, without the light; or both together, as described above. Ordinarily, when the ignition cut-out functions, the engine will go dead and stay dead until the car speed falls below the dialed figure; and at this point the cut-out will go out of action and the rolling car will start the engine, just as in braking with the engine. If it is desired to prevent this, the dial may be left unlocked, and turned back to zero as the cut-out comes into action.—Scientific American.

DUTY OF EVERY CAR DRIVER

Keep Machine in Good Repute on Streets and Highways, Says Secretary Fred Caley.

Keeping the motor car in good repute on the streets and highways, according to Fred H. Caley, executive secretary of the National Motorists' association, is the duty of every owner and the basis upon which the continued success of the motor car as a form of safe transportation depends.

"Some motorists need to be educated to a better understanding of their responsibilities, and act upon the advice of the more experienced," says Mr. Caley. "Our rules of safety reach this class satisfactorily, but we must treat the irresponsible motorist differently. Mere words, even the most caustic phrases, do not reach him. A more vigorous policy is necessary.

"It is not enough to sit by and complain about the foolhardy things being done to the discredit of drivers who try to be decent. Take the violator's number and report him to the police. Better still, jump out and publicly threaten to have him arrested. He won't forget the humility of it in a hurry.

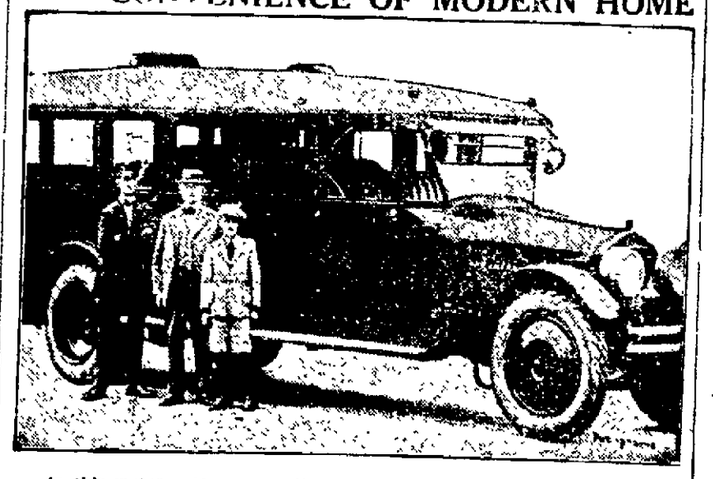
"No motorist is justified in remaining disinterested in the telling of a story of speeding. Let the violator know that he is on a par with the conventional lawbreaker and convince him the stigma his act places upon motoring will eventually hurt his standing, his business and his freedom in motoring."

DRIPPING FROM CRANK CASE

Trouble Has Its Source Usually at Bolt Holes in Oil Pan or a Broken Gasket.

The dripping of oil from the bottom of the crank case or oil pan has its source usually at bolt holes in the oil pan, a cracked or broken gasket between crank case and oil pan or either one of the two main end bearings. Another source is from the valve tappets or plungers, which, if worn, will allow oil to seep to the motor's exterior, finally dripping off the bottom of the motor base. In attempting to remedy this dripping, first tighten the cap screws which secure the oil pan to the motor base. This usually corrects the trouble.

MOTOR PALACE CONTAINS EVERY CONVENIENCE OF MODERN HOME



In this motor palace, no matter where you are, without the slightest inconvenience, you can have comfortable sleeping berths, shower baths, ample cooking facilities, cracked ice made as you ride, market news and entertainment by radio. Innocent looking panels of mahogany here and there conceal scores of unlooked for appointments. There are wardrobes and linen closets, oil and electric stoves, an ice-making plant, and many other conveniences. The water supply system for the entire coach is provided by a 40-gallon tank, pressure being maintained at all times by means of a pump driven by a power take-off on the transmission. The motor palace is owned by W. K. Kellogg, breakfast food magnate and world traveler. He is shown with his son, Dr. Karl H. Kellogg, and grandson, John.

Mrs. Coolidge as Girl Scout.

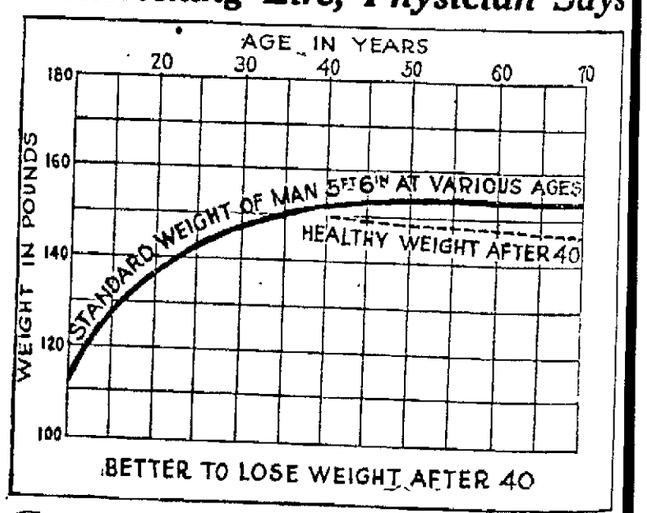
Gaining Weight After 40 Means Shortening Life, Physician Says



GAINING weight after the age of forty means decreasing the number of years the average man will live. Long life is a race in which the slim people have the best chance of winning.

These are the conclusions reached by Dr. Charles H. Willits, medical director of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia, who has just completed a survey of the subject.

"It is safe to gain weight slowly up to about the age of forty but generally dangerous after that," Dr. Willits said. "The slim man, who has passed middle age is a far better risk than the person who is overweight. The records of our company and others prove this conclusively.

"Intelligent eating and exercising will prevent and reduce excess flesh and enable people to live longer. The average American eats far too much sugar, especially since prohibition, and too much fats and starches and does not move around enough.

"There is a popular belief that the heavy man is more able to withstand disease and is consequently to be envied. This is true for young people only. Fat men and women are subject to diabetes, pneumonia, and diseases of the heart, stomach and kidneys that kill so many people over forty."

The danger of excessive overweight is clearly shown by the following table based on data collected by forty-three American Life Insurance Companies over a period of twenty-seven years.

Death Rate Per 10,000 Persons Over 45 years of age.

CAUSES	Overweight 50 lbs.	Normal Weight
Apoplexy	39.7	21.2
Diabetes	13.6	2.8
Organic Heart Disease	38.4	19.9
Brights Disease	37.4	17.9

Dr. Willits takes no stock in the theory that either work or golf is harmful to a man who has passed his fiftieth or even sixtieth birthday if he does not over exert himself. He believes that the span of life will continue to lengthen until it will be a crime for a man to die under seventy-five.

FREEMAN WANT ADS. BRING RESULTS

RESUME CANALS PROBE TOMORROW

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Oct. 23.—Although it is reported at the state capitol that the probe ordered by Governor Smith into the financial affairs of the bureau of canals, and which has been extended into the state highway department, will bring to light some unusual transactions in the highway bureau, none of the state officials involved will talk for publication.

The hearings in the investigation will be resumed tomorrow afternoon in the executive chamber before former Supreme Court Justice Joseph A. Kellogg of Glens Falls, named special commissioner by the governor under the Moreland act.

Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene, superintendent of the newly created department of public works, now has the bureau of canals, highway department and department of public buildings under his supervision.

It was Colonel Greene who first brought to the attention of Governor Smith alleged irregularities in the financial affairs of the canal bureau.

Colonel Greene claims the state has been overcharged $25,000 for canal supplies in the last few months by the General Mill and Contractors' Supply Company of Albany.

Bills held against the state for canal supplies by the Albany firm, and totalling between $18,000 and $20,000, have been ordered held up by Judge Kellogg pending the outcome of the probe.

It is reported that the state will make another attempt this week to secure the books of the Albany firm. Twice the investigators have been blocked by the firm in an effort to get the books.

Over 80,000 visitors passed through the gates to view the exposition, housed to advantage in the fair buildings.

New Straightline Coats for Travel

Wrap-Around Garment and Egyptian Embroidery Bid for Favor

The new straightline wrap-around coats with Egyptian embroidery running horizontally are the latest thing in travel coats, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Tribune. One designer makes a cape of dark blue serge that extends to the waist in front and to the knees in back, flaring in a circle. A scarf of red and black folds around the neck and hangs down to the hips on the side front, being held in place by the belt of the dark blue dress beneath.

There are as many ways of varying the cape suit for travel as there are couturiers in Paris, but the general rule is that it must be made of some practical wool material, with the cape not more than hip length in front. The scarf, in combination with the cape, is seen on many of these models.

Suits for travel have short coats and plain, rather short skirts. They are very trim and very untrimmed, except for unusual stitching, braid and buttons. The pocket is usually a feature of these suits, and if it is inconspicuous it is advertised by the use of a decorative little handkerchief.

Travel Coat in Which Green and Gray Drapella Are Combined, Using Green for Pointed Sections on Cape Collar, Sleeves and Hip Band.

Leather for travel suits is sometimes used. Another designer makes suits of suede that are very smart and useful.

There are long wraps for the journey which are loose affairs with fur collars. These are very bold in effect, having wide ten-inch stripes of contrasting colors, or are in plaids of many colors. The fur collar is often times dyed to match the color of the stripe. Such coats are usually worn over dresses.

For wear with suits there are waist-length capes similar to the coats just described. Coats and capes of this sort are extremely practical for traveling, as they do not crease easily.

Many Kinds of Gloves to Please All Tastes

Fancy gauntlet gloves, very short, with flared cuffs elaborately embroidered, or in double or triple tier effect, sum up the fashions in gloves.

The white glace kid glove embroidered in color or in black, with fancy gauntlet cuffs, is the newest note, and is worn irrespectively with long or short-sleeved gowns.

Mastic suede gloves in two-tone effects, namely, stitched in a darker tone in tan or brown silk also are fashionable. Two-tone and two-color combinations are very good; also black with a color, or white with a color.

Multi-colored embroideries are used in novelty gloves sold by the high-class specality shops. There is less demand for black glace kid, although novelty gauntlets in glace kid embroidered in colored silk and in metal are still represented. No gloves are worn with evening dresses.

Let in the Sun.

In the old days, blinds and curtains were kept down in the home to exclude the sun for fear its rays would fade some precious carpet or rug. Now sun and air are welcomed gladly and people live longer and better because they know better.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

All Are Costumes.

In these days, nothing is a separate garment, each piece of clothing makes up a costume. Two and three-piece suits continue to be the rage.

High Collars.

A very high collar of organdie has made its appearance. It is bordered with midnight blue and scarlet organdie.

What Made You Choose Your Wife?

SOMETIMES you wonder why a certain man married a certain woman. If you could see her through his eyes, you'd know. You might find yourself particularly attracted by her complexion, her hair, or the loveliness of her hands.

Intelligent women nowadays realize the importance of all such items of personal appearance. And realizing, for example, that their hands are made red, rough and coarse by the use of common household soap which irritates the skin, they are as careful about the kind of household soap they use as they are about their toilet soap.

This is why so many women are insisting upon Kirkman's whenever they buy soap. They know that Kirkman's is as harmless to their hands as the most exquisite toilet soap.

* * * *

KIRKMAN'S Soap is free from lye to redden and coarsen your hands. It is made of the finest and purest materials. It contains no adulterants such as starch, talcum powder or water glass, which have no cleansing value.

For all household and laundry purposes, Kirkman's is the most thorough cleanser that you can get. Its unique cleansing properties mix with every atom of water in your washtub so that most of the "elbow grease" is in the suds when you use it.

For the sake of your hands, insist upon Kirkman's Soap today.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 23.—The stock market opened dull and heavy today. Fractional declines were general throughout the list.

Stocks moved with a great deal of indecision in the forenoon trading today. While the major groups appeared entirely unable to establish anything like a trend, a number of individual issues were given speculative consideration.

The market continued heavy all through the afternoon, with many issues touching new lows for the year. Central Leather common dropped to 12, a loss of over one point. Coppers, steels, equipments, motors, and oils were moderately depressed.

GREAT LIBRARY FOR AMERICA

Famous "Roederer" Collection, at Rheims Before the War, Has Been Sent to New York.

The great Roederer library, one of the finest in France, which has been shipped to the United States, is a memorable souvenir of the war-scorched city of Rheims, where it was collected and treasured for many years. The 6,000 volumes and 2,000 original drawings of the Eighteenth century were removed from Rheims immediately before the German attack upon that city and were conveyed to Paris to save them from theft or wanton destruction. From Paris they have since been sent to New York.

This library comprises, among other beautiful things, the complete set of designs made to illustrate the edition of Boccaccio of the Eighteenth century and sold by Baron James de Rothschild to M. Roederer in 1882; the hundred designs intended to illustrate the edition of Ovid of Abbe Baunnier; the 276 designs of Oudry, for La Fontaine, the 136 illustrations of Fragonard, for the Orlando Furioso, and complete sets of engravings of Boucher, Moreau, Cochin, Eisen, Gravelot, Marillier, Huet and Debacourt.

The bindings of these beautiful volumes are as rare as they are magnificent. Those of the fables of La Fontaine are in citron morocco, before the war valued at $10,000.—New York Herald.

KRISHNA'S DANCE IS RECORD

Performance Credited to Indian "God of Love" Hardly Seems Likely to Be Equaled.

The 1923 epidemic of the marathon dance in the United States reminds the delver into ancient lore of the duration of Krishna's dance with the gopis. Krishna is the Indian Christ, the "Lord of Love," the "Seed and Flower of the Universe." He came to earth in human form 5,000 years ago, and grew up as a cow herder.

All the gopis adored him. The gopis were milkmaids, and Krishna's dance with the milkmaids in the forest of Brindaban ranks as the greatest accomplishment in his incarnation.

According to the popular legend there were 1,000 gopis, and each had her separate Krishna dancing with her, the god multiplying his personality among them so perfectly that each milkmaid was conscious only of the joyous fact that she herself had for her partner the Lord of Love.

One reads that birds and bees and flowers whirled around the heads of the dancers, and that passionate night forgot to draw its curtain to let day in, but lengthened into eons, making a non-stop dance record for all time.

Look for Much From Canal.

On May 5 the new ship canal between the Mississippi river and Lake Pontchartrain at New Orleans was formally dedicated, though it had been in use for several weeks before that. The new canal makes it possible to build a great modern port with an efficient system of warehousing for the deposit and exchange of goods and plenty of room for factories close to the docks from which their products will be shipped. It also enables ships to make their way into New Orleans from the Gulf of Mexico or out from the Mississippi to the sea without passing through the tortuous and shifting channel of the lower river. The commercial interests of New Orleans believe that the canal will add greatly to the activity and wealth of the city.—Youth's Companion.

Greenhouse a Life Saver.

Who would think of a greenhouse as a life-saving station?

"That's just what they are," Dr. J. G. Royse, assistant secretary of the state board of health, said: "They are regular life savers. All through the winter they provide us with lettuce and other greenstuffs for our table. There isn't the slightest question but that the greatest imaginable good to the public health comes from greenhouses.

"Supplying greenstuffs for the table makes more business for them than supplying flowers for our coffin, and the result all around makes for greater happiness."—Indianapolis News.

Christmas Trees as a Crop.

A forester in New Jersey proposes to set out 40 acres of otherwise undesirable land to Christmas trees. He will plant about five thousand trees to the acre, at an estimated cost of $40, and believes that in six or seven years every tree that is harvested will be worth thirty cents. The estimated increase from $40 to $1,500 may be too great, but there is no doubt that in a thickly settled region Christmas and nursery trees can be made a profitable crop.—Youth's Companion.

Short, but Profitable.

The pearl-fishing season in Ceylon only lasts 22 days, and during that period as many as 15,000,000 oysters are brought to the surface.

Creeping Devil Cactus of Lower California.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

Lower California, across a part of which the path of the recent total eclipse of the sun passed, and to which parties of scientists journeyed to make observations, seldom comes in for a share of the world's interest. While its neighbor above the United States border—of which it was once indeed a part—is famed throughout the world and visited by scores of thousands of tourists, the Mexican land of the same name with a recorded history which goes back almost four centuries and is crammed with varied events, still remains one of the least-known parts of North America.

Lower California—or Baja California, to give it its Mexican name—is the long, narrow peninsula that projects about 800 miles southeasterly from the southern border of California. Its width varies from about 30 to over 100 miles, and its regular coastline, over 2,000 miles long, is bordered by numerous islands. Being mainly a mountainous, desert region, it is thinly peopled and presents many sharply contrasting conditions. Here low, sun-scorched plains, where death by thirst awaits the unwary traveler, lie close to the bases of towering granite peaks, belted with waving pine forests and capped in winter by gleaming snow.

Vast desolate plateaus of ragged black lava embosom gem-like valleys, where verdure-bordered streams and the spreading fronds of date palms recall the mysterious hidden vales of the "Arabian Nights." Its western coast is bathed by cool waters and abundant fogs, while the eastern shore is laved by the waves of a warm inland sea, sparkling under almost continuous sunshine.

The early chronicles tell of its discovery in 1533, by an expedition sent out by Cortes in search of a fabulously rich island said to have been inhabited by Amazons.

It has been estimated that at the time of its discovery the peninsula, including many of the bordering islands, was peopled by about 25,000 Indians. The inhabitants vigorously resented the intrusion of newcomers, and for more than a century efforts to establish military colonies in the new land resulted in disastrous failures.

Jesuits Opened It Up.

Then the occupation of Lower California was put in the hands of the Jesuits, and their missionaries were wonderfully successful. They explored all parts of the peninsula and established missions throughout most of its extent, at the same time introducing many of the crops and fruits of the Old world.

In addition they established the three main trails, which extend practically the entire length of the peninsula, and to this day serve as the regular routes of travel. One leads along each coast and the third down the mountainous interior. The coast trails are easier to travel, because less broken; but the middle one is most used, owing to its better grazing and more numerous water holes.

The records of the dangers and obstacles met and overcome by such men as Padres Salvatierra, Kino, and Ugarte in their peaceable conquest of the peninsula excite one's deepest admiration. The work they accomplished and their resourcefulness and steadfast courage entitle them to a place in the front ranks of those stout-hearted pioneer explorers who first made known the wildest parts of America.

Resorted To by Freebooters.

During one period in its history the southern shores of the peninsula served as the lurking place of Sir Francis Drake and other freebooters lying in wait for the treasure-laden Spanish galleons on their annual voyages from Manila to Mexico.

Afterwards, during the first two-thirds of the last century, those shores were visited by numerous half-pirate smugglers and by fleets of whalers and sealers, drawn there by the swarming abundance of whales, fur seal, sea elephants, and sea otter. So ruthless was the pursuit of these animals that in a few decades they were on the verge of extermination, and the business ended, apparently forever.

The pearl fisheries of the Gulf coast were extremely productive at first and furnished the Spanish court with some of its richest jewels. Pearl fishing still survives as a profitable industry, and is in the hands of two or three concessionaires with headquarters at La Paz.

A few silver mines, notably at Triunfo, in the south, and Las Flores on the Gulf coast, have been worked profitably. Onyx is mined and shipped to California, and enormous salt deposits exist on the shores of the Santa Clara desert and on Carmen island.

Most of It Mountainous.

Lower California is for the most part mountainous, with irregular plains, mainly along the Pacific coast, and smaller plains and valleys here and there along the Gulf coast and in the more elevated interior. In climatic and other physical features the northern third of the peninsula is a continuation of extreme southern California, with local modifications. In the east the southern end of the Colorado desert crosses the border and continues down the Gulf coast to San Felipe bay, but is more broken by desert mountains than on the Californian side of the line. The part of the desert lying immediately south of the Californian border, with Mexicali as its chief town, is improved by irrigation from the Colorado, and shares with the adjacent Imperial valley of California in extensive agricultural development from this source.

Along the Pacific side a low range of coast mountains rises from 1,000 to 4,000 feet a short distance inland and extends over 100 miles southerly from the border. Back of this range lies a series of narrow valleys, beyond which rises the main interior mountain range, forming the backbone of the peninsula. These mountains constitute a high, narrow range over 150 miles long extending southeasterly from the California border. The southern section of this range, forming the San Pedro Martir mountains, rises from 6,000 to over 10,000 feet above the sea and has a rugged and broken crest with bench-like valleys. These are the highest and most picturesque mountains in the peninsula.

Magdalena bay farther south is a beautiful land-locked harbor, with the narrow entrance guarded by the headlands of high, mountainous ridges extending back some distance on Magdalena and Margarita islands. The bay is about fifteen miles across, with low, sandy shores on the eastern or mainland side and to the north and northwest.

The absolute shelter within this bay and its delightful, sunny winter climate has for years made it a favorite winter practice ground for our Pacific fleet. The bay is about 1,100 miles from San Francisco, directly on the route to Panama.

La Paz a Pleasant City.

La Paz, the oldest and most attractive town in Lower California, is at the head of La Paz bay, in the Gulf. It is the capital of the southern district and the chief commercial port of the peninsula, containing nearly 6,000 people. The streets are well laid out and there are some excellent stores and many comfortable houses. The gardens are filled with palms and various tropical fruit trees, which give the place a strongly tropical appearance though set in the midst of an excessively arid desert plain. Water is abundant near the surface and is pumped for irrigation purposes. La Paz has always been the base of the pearl fisheries, which extend along the east coast of the peninsula and far down the west coast of the Mexican mainland. North of La Paz the only towns on the Gulf coast are the small agricultural settlements at Loreto and Mulege and the busy mining camp of Santa Rosalia, the largest town in Lower California.

The climate of Lower California in general is hot and arid, as shown by the existing desert conditions. In the northern part conditions are closely like those in the adjoining parts of southern California; in the middle they are more arid, but the extreme southern end, though arid tropical, has more regular summer rains. The rainfall on the peninsula comes from two sources. The winter rainy season along the north Pacific coast extends commonly over the northern parts of Lower California, and sometimes winter storms reach its extreme southern end. In summer the tropical rainy season extends across from the Mexican mainland to the southern end.

Albany, October 17, 1923.

To City, Village and District Superintendents:

A great deal of confusion exists in regard to the status of the literacy test for new voters as a result of the legal controversy over the interpretation of chapter 809 of the amended election law. I wish to advise you that the Court of Appeals in a decision handed down yesterday held that

The Board of Regents and through them the public school officials are the sole agency for determining the literacy of new voters.

This decision makes it illegal for the local election inspectors to give any test to determine the literacy of new voters. The certificates of literacy issued by the school authorities must be accepted by the local election officials.

The delay in securing a legal interpretation of the law has resulted in some instances in new voters registering without presenting a diploma showing graduation from an elementary school or higher school, or a certificate of literacy issued by the local school authorities. In order that every prospective new voter may have a chance to secure a certificate of literacy, I strongly recommend that you open your schools on at least two more days or evenings regardless of the number of days that the schools have already been open for this purpose. Inasmuch as this is the first year that the law has been in operation, it would undoubtedly facilitate the carrying out of the law if the public schools were open on Saturday, October 20th, the last day of registration, in communities where personal registration is required. This recommendation, however, applies only to localities where personal registration is required.

The decision of the Court of Appeals will do a great deal to stimulate an interest in adult elementary education. It will have a wholesome influence in bringing about a greater respect for the work of the public schools. I earnestly solicit your active cooperation in making this law an effective instrument in our drive to eliminate illiteracy in the state of New York.

Very sincerely yours,
FRANK PIERREPONT GRAVES.
Commissioner of Education.

PROVE PUZZLE TO MOTORIST

Terms Used in England Differ Widely From the Expressions Common in America.

Motoring terms used in England are in many respects so different from those used in America that the American motorist has a certain amount of difficulty in understanding what it is all about.

A blowout is a "burst." Tire is spelled "tyre." Those sitting in the back seat of the car are the "back passengers." The windshield is the "wind screen." A five-passenger car is not referred to as a touring car, but as a "five-seater." Truck is lorry, gasoline is petrol. A windshield wiper is a "screen cleaner," a tonneau shield is a "rear wind screen."

Riding qualities are spoken of as the "springing" of the car. Spare parts are "car components." Carburetor is spelled carburetter. A spare tube is called a tube, but a spare tire is called a "cover"—a tire cover is called a "tyre gaiter." Spark plugs are "sparking plugs"; fenders are referred to as "wings." Invariably the hood is the bonnet, and the intake manifold is the inlet pipe.

But possibly the most amusing of all is the English way of referring to the process of cranking a car. The crank is the "handle" and to crank the car is to "wind the handle"—not by any means a slang expression, but the accepted way, in England, of referring to the primitive method of starting an automobile engine.

Tarpeian Rock.

Tarpeian is a precipice on the south side of the Capitoline hill at Rome, from which state criminals sentenced to death were thrown headlong. It derived its name from Tarpeia, a vestal virgin and daughter of Spurius Tarpeius, the governor of the citadel, who agreed to open the gates to the Sabines—then at war with the Romans—on condition of receiving from them what they wore on their arms (meaning their bracelets). She was rewarded for her treachery by being crushed to death by the weight of the shields cast upon her by the soldiers, who shouted as they hastened by: "These are the ornaments we wear on our arms." According to the legend, Tarpeia ever sits in the heart of the rock, adorned with gold and jewels, and bound by a spell.

St. Peter's Built in 176 Years.

From the time the foundation of St. Peter's in Rome was laid in 1450, under Pope Nicholas V, to the dedication of the completed church by Urban VIII, November 18, 1626, 176 years were spent in building the magnificent basilica, says the Detroit News. During that period 28 popes reigned. The cost of the basilica proper, exclusive of bell towers, statues, mosaics, etc., has been estimated at nearly $47,000,000. The sacristy added by Pius VI raised the cost almost $1,000,000. One of the strangest facts relating to St. Peter's is that with one or two exceptions all its pictures are mosaics. So perfect are they that they seem to be oil paintings. Yet there are only one or two oil paintings in the whole basilica.

Who the Schoolmen Were.

The name is given to certain theological teachers of the Middle Ages, so called because they originally lectured in the cloisters, or cathedral schools, founded by Charlemagne (768-814) and his successors, for the education of the clergy. The Schoolmen attempted the impossible task of reconciling the dogmas of faith with the dictates of reason, and indulged in metaphysical discussions of the most subtle and hair-splitting kind. Among the most famous may be mentioned Roscellinus, Abelard, Anselm, St. Bernard, Thomas Aquinas, Alexander of Hales, Duns Scotus, Albertus Magnus, William of Ockham, and Jean Gerson.

Naboth's Vineyard.

Naboth's vineyard was a vineyard in Jezreel, greatly coveted by Ahab, king of Israel. Naboth, the owner, declined, however, either to sell the vineyard to the king or exchange it for another, and was, in consequence, cruelly murdered on a false charge of blasphemy, trumped up by the infamous queen, Jezebel. Ahab thereupon took immediate possession of the vineyard, but was met by the prophet Elijah, who denounced the wickedness of the king and queen and foretold the awful doom that awaited Jezebel and her children. The phrase "Naboth's vineyard" is sometimes used to denote any possession greatly coveted by others.

Friends of Job.

"Job's comforter" is the expression ironically used to denote any person who, under pretense of sympathizing with another's afflictions, attributes them to his misdeeds and thus aggravates his sorrow. The allusion is to Eliphaz, Bildad and Zophar, friends of Job, who visited him in his distress and declared that his misfortunes resulted from his sins and iniquities. "Then Job answered and said, I have heard many such things; miserable comforters are ye all."—Job 16:1-2.

Irritability.

Irritability is at the bottom of as many budding reform movements as brotherly love.

Canadian Farm Lands.

The average value of occupied farm lands in Canada for the year 1922 is $44 an acre, according to a report issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics. This included improved and unimproved land together with houses, barns and other buildings on the farms. The average value in 1921 was $40 an acre, while it was $48 in 1920 and $33 in 1915. Average values are higher in British Columbia, where the figure is given as $120 an acre. The other provinces vary from $64 in Ontario to $24 in Alberta.

Wise.

English celebrities are refusing to lecture in America. They knew that they cannot hope to compete with prize fighters.

It takes Money to Bake at Home

for there is the cost of the coal (or gas), and the ingredients that are called for by the recipe. There is the labor, and worry, the fear that the slamming door will make the cake "fall" in the oven, and the question whether the cake will be really good or just "so-so." That represents more money than it will take to buy Drake's Cake from the nearby grocery

PLANNING TO MAINTAIN SCOUTING

Commissioner Gordon Getting Ulster County Organization Together For Campaign—Speakers Ready To Explains Aims to Any Gathering.

Steps to place the Boy Scout movement in Ulster county on a firm financial basis were begun with a meeting of the executive committee last Saturday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. This meeting in addition to the local Scout executive committee was attended by Arthur A. Schuck, national financial advisor and H. A. Gordon, special national field commissioner.

The amount to be raised was determined and the period of years for which the money was to last was determined. It was decided to have Commissioner Gordon take over the directing of the campaign and he together with Scout Executive Nessage have whipped into shape the campaign schedule.

Informal conferences with various local council members developed very satisfactory indications that a man who will make an extremely strong chairman will find it possible to head the drive.

Today at noon Messrs. Coe, Lester, Nessage and Gordon took lunch with the Busines Men's Luncheon club at Ellenville. The aim of the campaign is not only to raise the necessary amount of money for Ulster county but also more thoroughly tie every part of the county into one compact working unit. The campaign management is in a position to explain in detail the aims of the organization for any gathering of people at any point in the county.

The following gives an idea of the fifty principles taught the youths who are members of this big nation-wide organization:

"A Scout! He enjoys a hike through the woods more than he does a walk over the city's streets. He can tell north or south or east or west by the 'signs.' He can tie a knot that will hold, he can climb a tree which seems impossible to climb, he can swim a river, he can pitch a tent, he can mend a tear in his trousers, he can tell you which wild seeds are poisonous and which are not, he can sight nut-bearing trees from a distance; if living on an inlet he can reef a sail and take his trick at the wheel and if near any body of water at all he can pull an oar or use paddles and sculls; in the woods he knows the names of birds and animals; in the water he tells you the different varieties of fish.

"A Scout walks through the woods with silent tread. No dry twigs snap under his feet and no loose stones turn over and throw him off his balance. His eyes are keen and he sees many things that others do not see. He sees tracks and signs which reveal to him the nature and habits of the creatures that made them. He knows how to stalk birds and animals and study them in their natural haunts. He sees much and is little seen.

"A Scout, like the old frontiersman, does not shout his wisdom from the housetops. He possesses the quiet power that comes from knowledge. He speaks softly and answers questions modestly. He knows a braggart but he does not challenge him, allowing the boaster to expose his ignorance by his own loose wagging tongue."

Chick Evans

Charles "Chick" Evans, one of the greatest golfers in the world, has admitted he will go through bankruptcy in Chicago, owing $400,000 and possessing nothing. With $150,000 of his own and many thousands he borrowed, Evans sought a fortune in the stock market and lost.

Broderick Hartwell

Sir Broderick Hartwell has advertised throughout the length and breadth of Great Britain his intention of starting a transatlantic liquor business if the 12-mile limit is established. He would sell liquor to American rum runners outside that limit. He has actually organized the enterprise and is offering a 20 per cent profit on all capital invested.

RURAL WRITERS GET COURSE AT COLLEGE

Special Work for Persons Who Contribute to Local Newspapers.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Special training for persons who write rural news for newspapers is given at the short courses in agriculture at the state college here. These courses will open on November 7 and continue through February 15. The lessons in rural news writing are included in the course in general agriculture and may be taken in connection with other work. These lessons do not require all of a student's time.

In addition to the work given in the general agricultural course, there are specialized courses in dairy industry, poultry husbandry, floriculture and ornamental horticulture, fruit growing, and vegetable gardening.

The course in rural writing has been added because of the growing interest in the country newspaper as a factor in community life. The rural correspondent, it is believed, can make a very definite contribution to his neighborhood by being able to report clearly and well events which are of more than personal interest.

Bible in Translation.

The Bible is far in advance of any other book in the number of its translations, for it has actually been rendered in whole or in part into 770 languages and dialects and the end is not yet in sight. The translation is still progressing at the rate of one complete book of the Bible in a new language every six weeks, a speed record which has been maintained for over twenty years.—The Mentor.

Making of Art.

The making of art is a process of boiling down a great deal of life into the essence of art—a process of condensation. The appreciation of art is a process of living oneself out into its multitudinous separate manifestations in a process of expansion. For the artist, life is for the sake of art; for the appreciator, art is for the sake of life.—Virgil Barker, in The Arts.

A Cosmopolitan.

Joe—Bill, what's a cosmopolitan?

Bill—Well, suppose you was a Russian Jew livin' in America, had married to a Chinese woman, and you had just finished an Irish stew and you was smokin' a Turkish cigarette, while a Negro band outside was playing "The Blue Bells of Scotland," then you'd be a cosmopolitan.

To Hunt Fossils in Patagonia.

A five-year hunt for fossils of extinct species of mammals which appeared ages ago, will be begun soon, when Prof. Elmer S. Riggs, associate curator of paleontology of the Field Museum of Natural History, of Chicago, and three assistants will sail for Buenos Aires on the first leg of their expedition. After exploring the Argentine pampas, the party will strike southward along the Atlantic coast as far as the Straits of Magellan. In places the work will be along beaches where the ledges are accessible only a few hours each day. In the extremity of Patagonia, a land of strange legends and folk-story, the party will search for fossil remains of unique and much more ancient animals, which existed in South America in the ages when it was almost as widely separated from North America as Australia is now separated from Asia. This isolation accounts for strange fossils.

Acts to Save Animals' Teeth.

The Royal Zoological society which runs the "zoo" in Regents' park has a new curator and one of the first things he did when he assumed office was to put the apes on a diet of hardtack so as to save their teeth, which were becoming loosened on a diet of bananas, potatoes, oranges and bread. The trouble seemed to be a loosening of the teeth like prorrhea. The unwilling boarders at the zoo take to the hardtack and seem to prefer it to the soft food.

Worldly Fortune.

"Would you marry a man who works for a living?" asked the timid youth.

"I might consider it," replied Miss Cayenne, "if he happened to be drawing a bricklayer's wages."

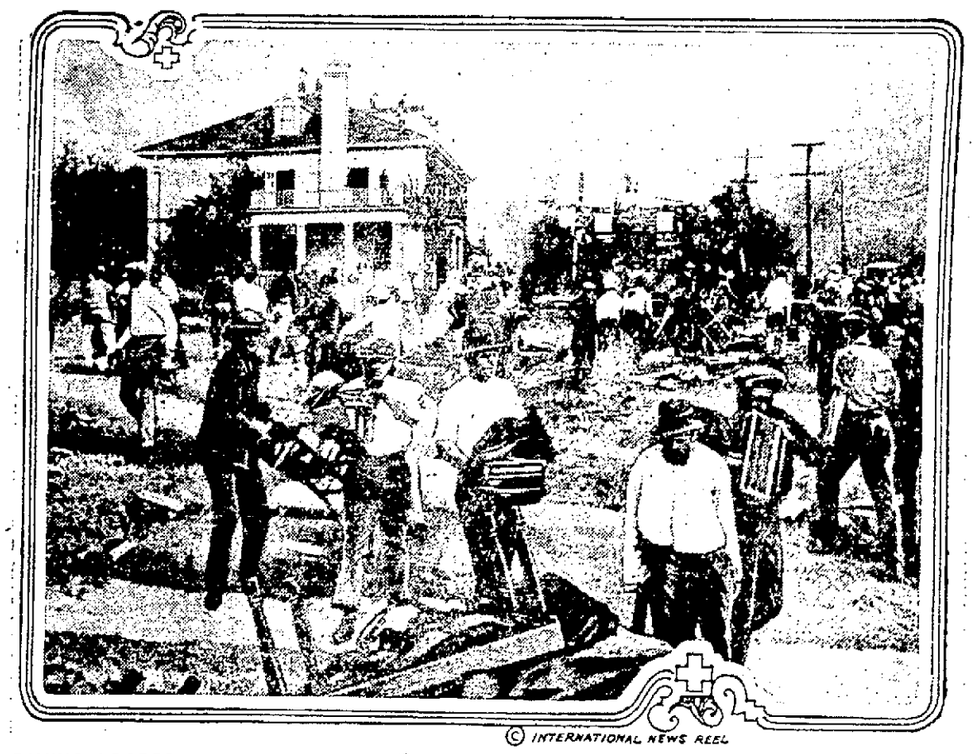
Recovery From Disturbance of Calamity Tests Relief Services of Red Cross



© INTERNATIONAL NEWS REEL

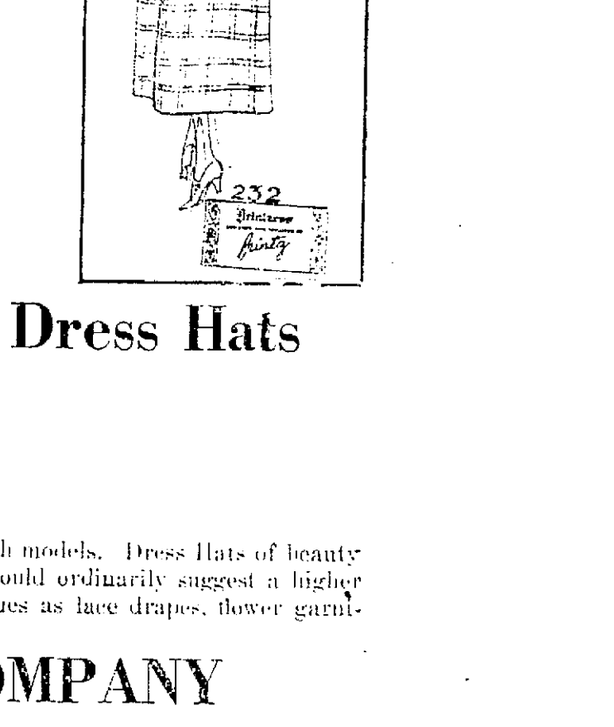
SAVING PROPERTY ON THE EDGE OF A GREAT FIRE WHILE RED CROSS WORKERS SERVE THE INJURED AND HOMELESS

Washington. — "Japan's earthquake calamity, with its toll of 103,000 dead, 125,000 injured, 235,000 missing and more than 2,000,000 homeless, will affect the equilibrium of the people of the empire for a long period," says Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross. "The after-effect of disaster is far-reaching in its disturbing influences, which persons at a distance cannot visualize, however deeply they are moved to sympathetic action by first reports of extensive loss of life and property," he added. "The munificence of America in giving two-fold for Japan's relief was characteristic of our people and it serves to point out the lesson learned by the Disaster Relief Service of the Red Cross that the first estimates of destruction generally err on the side of conservatism."

As an example of the long period of recovery which follows disaster Judge Payne cited the forest fires in Minnesota. Many of the persons injured and impoverished in October, 1918, are receiving relief from the Red Cross Chapter at Duluth today—four years after that disaster. The operations undertaken by the Red Cross to rescue and relieve the victims in this instance also had a happy contributing result, for these activities led to the establishing of the Forest Fire Commission by Minnesota, empowered to protect the State's great forest reserves.

The 110 disasters in the United States during the year ended June 30, according to the annual report of the American Red Cross, resulted in 240 deaths, 991 persons injured, and property losses estimated at $20,710,000. The record shows nearly every section of the country had its disaster, from Maine to California, and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico. The victims sheltered, fed and clothed by the Red Cross numbered nearly 20,000. In the recent $10,000,000 fire which destroyed a large part of the residential section of Berkeley, Cal., pictured above, effective emergency service was given by hundreds of University of California students, who were quickly organized by Red Cross workers into safety battalions and did much to minimize loss of property and human suffering.

Disaster relief will ever be a foremost duty of the American Red Cross, Judge Payne points out, for calamity comes without warning, and the Red Cross must successfully meet the test of readiness for immediate relief operations wherever the call for services arises. "The American Red Cross is the outward expression, coined into action, of the hearts of the American people," says Judge Payne, who expresses confidence in the success of the membership Roll Call opening Armistice Day, November 11, and bespeaks his belief that the Red Cross would in this year's campaign maintain its numerical strength and recruit many thousands of new members among persons who had come to realize through recent world-stirring calamity that the Red Cross must carry on in peace time as promptly and effectually as in time of war.



Arthur Covell, 46, a cripple, is under arrest in Mansfield, Ore., after having confessed, the police assert, that he planned the death of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Elba Covell. While the actual murder was committed by Mrs. Covell's 16-year-old stepson, Alton, Arthur Covell acknowledges he planned the death and used this astrological chart to hoodwink the boy into believing the stars had ordered the crime committed. Covell, an astrologer and mystic, is well educated. Evidence in the hands of the police indicate that he planned many other crimes. The "death sign" is shown at the bottom of the chart he used in persuading the boy to murder his step-mother.

BOGASH HAS A SHADE OVER GREB

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Newark, N. J., Oct. 23. In a bout teeming with action, Harry Greb, middleweight champion, was outspeeded by Lou Bogash, of Bridgeport, Conn., the concensus of opinion being that Bogash carried six rounds to Grebs five, one being even.

Those credited to the Bridgeport entry were the third, fifth, eighteenth, eleventh and twelfth, his rally in the last few rounds bringing home the verdict after Greb had all the better of the early going.

The champion won the honors in the first, second, sixth, seventh and ninth rounds.

Because no decisions are permitted in New Jersey, and that fact that both men were over the middle weight limit Greb weighing 166 pounds, and Bogash 163, honor and not the title went into the latter's victory.

The bout was a rough one, from the outset.

The Metropolitan Basketball League got off to a very good start during the first week's playing of its schedule. Benny Borgman, former Kingston player and leader in basket shooting for last season, begins this season following the first week leading the Metropolitan League with 32 points. Following are the ten leading scorers of the league to date:

	G.	FG.	F.	Tl
Borgman Paterson	3	7	18	32
Campbell, Trenton	2	8	8	24
Malone, Yonkers	3	7	9	23
Ripley, Paterson	3	5	7	17
Carey, Greenpoint	2	5	5	16
A. Powers, Paterson	3	5	5	15
Banks, Brooklyn	2	2	11	15
Brennan, Brooklyn	2	4	7	15
C. Husta, Kingston	2	2	10	14
Meehan, Trenton	2	3	8	14

League Standing.

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Trenton	2	0	1.000
Brooklyn	2	0	1.000
Kingston	1	1	.500
Paterson	1	2	.333
Yonkers	1	2	.333
Greenpoint	0	2	.000

Schedule for This Week.

Wednesday, Oct. 24—Brooklyn at Kingston.
Friday, Oct. 26—Yonkers at Trenton.
Saturday, Oct. 27—Paterson at Yonkers.
Sunday, Oct. 28—Trenton at Brooklyn; Kingston at Greenpoint.

One of the big surprises of the season occurred when the Trenton Tigers took the Paterson champions into camp twice in succession, and if any question of doubt as to the strength of Trenton remained in the minds of the fans from the upper section of the league, this feat easily dispelled such doubts.

Another unusual occurrence took place during the first week of the season in that out of seven games played, four were won by the visiting teams. Yonkers started the ball rolling by trimming Kingston on the latter's floor, only to have Kingston reverse the tables when the two met at Yonkers on Saturday. Trenton defeated the Legionaires at Paterson and Brooklyn conquered Greenpoint at the latter court in a game that required two extra periods. To have so many traveling teams win in the first week of the campaign augurs well for the success of the league as it proves in large measure the equality of playing conditions at all courts, and the competency and fairness of the officials, with a corresponding regard for the efforts of contesting players on the part of the spectators.

NOTRE DAME HAS HEROIC SCHEDULE

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Oct. 23.—While eulogies are being cast upon the vagrant breezes concerning the speed, versatility, judgment and general worthiness that have come to be associated with the combination of Knute Rockne and Notre Dame, one fact seems to have been overlooked, to wit: Notre Dame is attempting to snap off a schedule of games that is just a little bit tedious, even for a Rockne eleven.

The schedule is one of those affairs that college correspondents like to refer to as "ambitious." It is a weak term in its present application. That schedule would break the back of a steel girder. Evidently, it is Rockne's idea to start at the top and work up

First off, the team came east to Ebbet's Field, knocked the Army off by two touchdowns and went home. Five days later, it was headed east again and this time it made the visit more or less memorable by beating Princeton some twenty-three points. Business of typographical shouts from gentlemen of the press, as Notre Dame journeyed homeward.

The team has nothing to look forward to in the immediate future except a game, on Saturday with Georgia Tech, for years one of the greatest teams, and certainly the most consistent in the south. Neither Harvard nor Yale would care very much about taking on Tech at this stage of the proceedings.

Purdue, one of the chronically weaker Big Ten elevens, follows Georgia Tech on the Rockne schedule, probability so that Rockne can get his young men accustomed to taking the low hurdles in stride as well as the high. The next stop is Lincoln Nebr. where Fred Dawson's Nebraska cornhuskers, always a source of unpleasantness to Notre Dame during recent sessions, will be taken on. No team is choosing the huskers by preference either.

Butler is next in line. We know little or nothing about the team in question, but we imagine the affair constitutes what technically might be caleld a "breather." However, Butler may be the kind of breather one takes under ten feet of water.

The final game on the regular schedule involves another trip east to Pittsburgh to play Carnegie Tech. Around Pittsburgh, Carnegie is fancied above the Pitts Panthers, which means that Plaid outfit is not a wind-blown cinch.

And the end is not yet. It is understood that Notre Dame has accepted an invitation to play a coast team, probably Southern California at Los Angeles on Christmas Day.

Ambitious? That schedule is downright heroic.

STATION TO SHOW NEW APPLE AT BIG SHOW

The Cortland apple, probably the most promising new apple produced by the horticulturists at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva, together with Red Spy, Golden Delicious and Red Gravenstein, other recent additions to the list of New York apples will be an important feature of the station's exhibit at the Eastern Apple Exposition and Fruit Show to be held in the Grand Central Palace in New York city early in November, according to a statement just issued by the station authorities.

A cross between Ben Davis and McIntosh, the Cortland is described as an improved McIntosh, having all the desirable characteristics of that popular variety and, at the same time, prolonging the season for the McIntosh type of apple. The Red Spy and the Red Gravenstein are typical apples of their respective varieties, but differ from the standard sorts in their beautiful red color. Golden Delicious is an excellent yellow apple which has been found adapted to New York state and which the station fruit specialists believe meets the demand for a good yellow apple that can be grown as widely as the red kinds.
